WALL INFO

1. Nomadic and enigmatic Belgium artist ROA is part prolific street artist, part avid naturalist and his aerosol work often features animals endemic to the locations he visits, like the giant native tuatara he has painted here.

2. Be Free began making feminine and mischievous street art using found objects, stencils and aerosol art after moving to Melbourne and becoming fascinated by the artworks that were plastered and spayed on its inner-city laneways.

3. This was the first attempt at a major urban mural by Dunedin artist Jon Thom, who draws inspiration for his distinctive monochromatic portraits in Dunedin’s spectacular landscapes and dramatic weather.

4. Dunedin artists Sam Ovens and Andy McCready created these retro, bookend style pieces. Sam describes this piece as his homage to loud music and psychedelic imagery, while Andy has created one of her signature coiffed ladies in her pop art styled work. The two pieces reflect one another through their mutual vibrant colour schemes and pop culture references.

5. This colourful and exciting mural collaboration on Water St was begun as part of the first Dunedin Street Art Festival in 2014 and was completed early in 2015. It demonstrates the unique style of eight local and international street artists.

6. Māori waka and a steam-punk like submarine (a reference to the incident where a Japanese submarine was supported in the Otago Harbour) emerge from a fish’s mouth in this distinctive piece by Phlegm which incorporates local history alongside his distinctly fantastical style.

7. Local artist (and tattooist) Devon Smith creates distinctive delicate sketches and paintings, drawing inspiration from children’s books, fairytales cartoons and comics.

8. Argentinian street artist Hyuro created this piece entitled “Unoccupied” depicting a suspended dress to reflect the vacant status of the historic building in the warehouse precinct on which it was created.

9. Dunedin native Sean Duffell’s idiosyncratic style which draws inspiration from native flora and fauna can be spotted in cities up and down the length of the country, and he is one of the most recognisable and prolific street artists New Zealand has to offer.

10. Polish artist Natalia Rak’s mural entitled “Love is in the Air” is characteristic of her cheeky, playful and hyper-realistic style and reflects her passion for bold colours.

11. “Riding Dreams” by Pixel Pancho demonstrates a complex interweaving of the human form, flora, and metal to create the surreal image of a “not quite human” boy riding a fantastical metal horse reflecting his fascination with 1950s robots.

12. Argentinian street artist Hyuro’s two-storied Bond Street mural reflects her larger body of work by speaking to both social norms and the use of public space in the city.

13. This piece is a world first collaboration by Pixel Pancho and Phlegm and presents the successful mixing of their own unique style creating a surreal battle between Pixel Pancho’s robots and Phlegm’s sloth-like creatures.

14. Chinese artist DAEleast represents New Zealand’s extinct Haast Eagle and is reflective of his unique style which presents the frenetic shape of animals and people as if they have been constructed out of shards of metal.

15. The vibrant horned skulls that guard what used to be Glue Gallery were created by Melbourne based artist Snotrag, who often uses punk and tribal inspired aesthetic to bring life to abandoned and derelict buildings and spaces.

16. Local artist (and tattooist) Devon Smith creates distinctive delicate sketches and paintings, drawing inspiration from children’s books, fairytales cartoons and comics.

17. Argentinian street artist Hyuro created this piece entitled “Unoccupied” depicting a suspended dress to reflect the vacant status of the historic building in the warehouse precinct on which it was created.

18. Dunedin native Sean Duffell’s idiosyncratic style which draws inspiration from native flora and fauna can be spotted in cities up and down the length of the country, and he is one of the most recognisable and prolific street artists New Zealand has to offer.

19. Polish artist Natalia Rak’s mural entitled “Love is in the Air” is characteristic of her cheeky, playful and hyper-realistic style and reflects her passion for bold colours.

20. Argentinian street artist Hyuro’s two-storied Bond Street mural reflects her larger body of work by speaking to both social norms and the use of public space in the city.

21. This piece is a world first collaboration by Pixel Pancho and Phlegm and presents the successful mixing of their own unique style creating a surreal battle between Pixel Pancho’s robots and Phlegm’s sloth-like creatures.

22. Chinese artist DAEleast represents New Zealand’s extinct Haast Eagle and is reflective of his unique style which presents the frenetic shape of animals and people as if they have been constructed out of shards of metal.

23. The vibrant horned skulls that guard what used to be Glue Gallery were created by Melbourne based artist Snotrag, who often uses punk and tribal inspired aesthetic to bring life to abandoned and derelict buildings and spaces.

24. Local artist (and tattooist) Devon Smith creates distinctive delicate sketches and paintings, drawing inspiration from children’s books, fairytales cartoons and comics.

25. Argentinian street artist Hyuro created this piece entitled “Unoccupied” depicting a suspended dress to reflect the vacant status of the historic building in the warehouse precinct on which it was created.

26. Dunedin native Sean Duffell’s idiosyncratic style which draws inspiration from native flora and fauna can be spotted in cities up and down the length of the country, and he is one of the most recognisable and prolific street artists New Zealand has to offer.

27. Polish artist Natalia Rak’s mural entitled “Love is in the Air” is characteristic of her cheeky, playful and hyper-realistic style and reflects her passion for bold colours.

28. Argentinian street artist Hyuro’s two-storied Bond Street mural reflects her larger body of work by speaking to both social norms and the use of public space in the city.

WHO IS DUNEDIN STREET ART?

Dunedin Street Art (DSA) is a group of volunteers working hard to bring commissioned art to the streets of Dunedin.

Funding for street art installations comes from donations, crowd-sourcing, fundraising, sponsorship, and grants.

HOW CAN YOU DONATE?

POP IT STRAIGHT INTO OUR BANK ACCOUNT:
ANZ – DUNEDIN STREET ART
06 0541 0532712 00

EMAIL ➤ dunedinstreetart@gmail.com
FOLLOW ➤ f dunedinstreetart
TAG ➤ #dunedinstreetart

GOT SPARE CHANGE?

PAY A VISIT TO ONE OF THESE COOL PLACES AND POP IT INTO A CUSTOM PAINTED PIGGY

• Nectar Cafe, Princes Street
• Vanguard Cafe, Princes Street
• Vogel St Kitchen, Vogel Street
• Churros Ole – Food Truck
• Toast, Princes Street